LACY CREEK.

J. G. Trimble sold a cow to Clarence Trimble for $30.

Miss Lula Rose visited on Grassy Saturday and Sunday.

The infant child of Melvin Brewer and wife is not expected to live.

Mrs. Emma Trimble and daughter, Omaha, visited at Hazel Green Sunday.

A wedding came off on this creek Saturday evening, which was a surprise to everybody.

Miss Mallie Byrd was a visitor to her sister, Mrs. Joe L. Wilson, one day recently.

Quite a crowd assembled at the Rose graveyard last Sunday to decorate the graves and pay their respects to the ones gone before.

R. A. Childers and wife, of Stillwater, with their little daughter, Rose Eveline, visited Hoy L. Childers and family, of this creek, over Sunday.

Mrs. Angeline James, of your town, is visiting her son, A. B. James, on this creek. This is her second trip to Lacy creek since she moved from here several years ago.

Mort Elkins, the lucky fisherman, has given up the idea of fishing any more. He thinks squirrel hunting is more profitable as he killed 5 squirrels in four days, an average of 1 1/4 per day.

Miss Sarah Taylor, of Stillwater, accompanied by her nephew, Rolie Sully, visited on this creek recently. While Miss Taylor was visiting her brother, it seems that Rolie's intention was to call somewhere else in the neighborhood.

Levy Elkins, of this creek, has one acre of very rough hill land that money can't buy just at present, but at some time may produce more money than Carter had oats. There is neither gold, silver, coal, gas nor oil on the place, but it is well stocked with the weed called gingee.

June 7. BERTIE.

Women Who Are Envyed.

Those attractive women who are lovely in face, form and temper are the envy of many, who might be like them. A weak, sickly woman will be nervous and irritable. Constipation or kidney poisons show in pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. For all such, Electric Bitters work wonders. They regulate stomach, liver and kidneys, purify the blood; give strong nerves, bright eyes, pure breath, smooth, velvety skin, lovely complexion. Many charming women owe their health and beauty to them. 50c at all dealers.

LAUREL CREEK.

Harve Banks is quite ill at this writing.

Bruce Pelfry was seen shopping on Little Laurel Sunday.

Pearce Brewer was called to Dog creek Monday on legal business.

A Thrilling Rescue.

How Bert R. Lean, of Cheny, Wash., was saved from a frightful death is a story to thrill the world. "A hard cold," he writes, "brought on a desperate lung trouble that baffled an expert doctor here. Then I paid $10 to $15 a visit to a lung specialist in Spokane, who did not help me. Then I went to California, but without benefit. At last I used Dr. King's New Discovery, which completely cured me and now I am as well as ever." For lung trouble, bronchitis, cough and colds, asthma, croup and whooping cough it's supreme. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by all dealers.

Sam and George Wheeler, cattle dealers, passed through here the other day with about 800 sheep, which they had bought for the market.

It is rumored here that Heddie Lindon, son of Andy Lindon, and Richard Fugate, son of Uncle Bill Fugate, who recently joined the army, were to be court martialled for killing two military officers and wounding another. We do not think it is true, or, at least, hope it is not. We will report facts when learned.

June 7. NAT.

MURPHY FORK.

Boone McGuire and wife, of Bonny, spent Sunday at the home of Ben Murphy.

Miss Golden Murphy was taken suddenly ill Saturday with an attack of cholera morbus.

Corn in this section is growing to beat the band. A person standing up straight will fail to reach the top.

Berry Taulbee made a notch or two in a matrimonial venture Sunday. He took dinner with a charming widow.

John Frisby, of Scranton, is the latest addition to the force of hands now employed on Dr. Harry Murphy's farm.

Berry Taulbee, Stanley Clark and Jim Faulkner spent Saturday night fox hunting, resulting with luck, very bad luck.

Burford and Ora Murphy spent Sunday at the home of their uncle, Andrew Couch, at Bonny, and also took in the big meeting at Long branch.

Cecil Hurt and family, of Greenbrier, came on the creek Saturday and will perhaps remain a month at the home of his mother, Mrs. Nannie Murphy.

John S. Pieratt and daughters, Misses Nora, Zelpha and Maggie, attended the Sunday service at Long branch church. Rev. Harry Gardner, a colored divine of Daysboro, was the grand orator of the day.

The shadow of gloom has dispersed and everything is lovely around the home of Dr. Harry Murphy, as long Dave Lawson now occupies the dear old cabin on the hill. Now the corn will grow and weeds will be a thing of the past.

Bud Little, of Mize, reports to the writer that Thursday morning early a crib with 800 bushels of corn, belonging to Sebe Cundiff, caught fire. No clew as to how the fire originated. With the assistance of neighbors some of the corn was saved.

The Second Whirlwind Campaign.

The Second "Whirlwind Campaign" for better education in Kentucky has been planned for June 27-July 3, and will be bigger, better and more thoroughly than the former campaign. It will cover the entire state, both city and county, with special reference to the rural community. The campaign will open Sunday, June 27, when every minister in the state will be asked to deliver an address on "Public Education in Kentucky," from his own pulpit. The regular speakers—one hundred strong—will begin active work on Monday, June 28. In nearly every instance each speaker will cover two counties. His work will be reinforced by local speakers and every community will have an opportunity to participate in the great educational movements which are sweeping over Kentucky.

One of the most important events of the campaign in each county will be the "Rally Day." This should be the greatest event in the history of the county. An all-day, open-air meeting with music and marching and special entertainment has been planned to take place in each county seat. Let every business man—every busy man—every Kentucky woman attend the big meeting. All teachers, trustees and school children should attend this meeting and they should be joined by every one who is interested in the children of the Commonwealth. Many of the most noted men in political and official life in Kentucky have been asked to deliver addresses on the occasion and every effort will be made to make it a gala day.

A great conference of the speakers and superintendents has been planned to meet in Frankfort prior to the opening of the campaign, and a complete review of the work of the campaign will be made and a uniform plan of action will be decided upon. The entire purpose and scope of the work will be discussed, a uniform plan will be agreed upon and all speakers will be asked to work in unison.

One important change in the plan of the coming campaign will be the shifting of the bombardment from the city to the rural community. Most of the campaign of 1908 was devoted to the cities and small towns while that of 1909 will attempt to reach rural school conditions. As a rule the cities have good systems of education already and every effort will be made to bring the standard up to the rural school.

Some of the leading speakers who will take part in the campaign are: Governor Augustus E. Wilson, Frankfort; Governor Wm. H. Cox, Maysville; Hon. Lafon Allen, Louisville; President B. B. Hantoon, Louisville; Dr. F. W. Hinit, Danville; Hon. B. A. Crutcher, Winchester; Hon. Campbell Cantrill, Georgetown; Hon. W. O. Davis, Versailles; Senator Wm. O. Bradley, Louisville; Hon. John W. Langley, Paintsville; Judge Edward C. O'Rear, Frankfort; Hon. Ben L. Bruner, Frankfort; Dr. William G. Frost, Berea; Hon. McKenzie Moss, Bowling Green; Hon. J. D. Eggleston, Jr., Richmond, Va.; Supt. H. C. McKee, Frankfort; Dr. Hugh McClellan, Richmond; Supt. H. L. Eby, Bellevue; Supt. J. W. Ireland, Stanford; Mrs. Herbert Mengel, Louisville; Mrs. Chas. P. Weaver, Louisville; Miss Irene T. Myers, Lexington; Mrs. Letcher Riker, Harrodsburg; Hon. J. J. Watkins, Sturgis; Prof. Rice S. Eubank, Lexington; Dr. Arthur Yeager, Georgetown; Prof. J. T. C. Noe, Lexington; Supt. R. L. Allen, Owensboro; Supt. H. O. Sluss, Covington; Prof. J. W. Dinmore, Berea; Supt. E. R. Jones, Frankfort; Dr. J. I. Wean, Ashland; Dr. George J. Ramsey, Frankfort; President H. H. Cherry, Bowling Green; Supt. E. H. Mark, Louisville; Supt. L. N. Taylor, Somerset; Supt. A. Carnegie, Paducah; Supt. T. C. Cherry, Bowling Green; Supt. Ellsworth Regenstein, Newport; Supt. A. C. Burton, Mayfield; Supt. Geo. W. Chapman, Paris; Prof. J. S. Dickey, Bowling Green; Dr. A. J. Kinnaman, Bowling Green; Dr. C. R. Hudson, Frankfort; Supt. T. J. Coates, Richmond; Judge W. T. Lafferty, Lexington; Prof. E. C. McDougle, Richmond; Prof. John E. Calfee, Berea; Supt. Moses E. Wood, Leitchfield; Supt. G. Clinton Hanna, Smith's Grove; Supt. Barksdale Hamlet, Hopkinsville; Dr. M. B. Adams, Frankfort; Supt. McHenry Roads, Owensboro; Supt. J. P. W. Brouse, Somerset; Supt. Mat A. Cassidy, Lexington; Dr. R. H. Crossfield, Lexington; Dr. J. C. Lewis, London; Prof. Jas. P. Faulkner, Berea; President J. C. Acheson, Danville; Hon. Tom B. McGregor, Frankfort.

KENTUCKY KERNELS

Carefully Collated and Concisely Chronicled.

Yeagmen blew open the door of the outer vault door of the postoffice building in Newport, but became frightened and left before securing any of the valuables.

A fox got into a flock of turkeys belonging to Miss Angie Steele, of Bath county, and killed thirty of them. Mr. Reynard left his card in the shape of tracks.

Judge John D. Young, Sr., of Mt. Sterling, suffered a stroke of paralysis last Friday, and owing to his advanced age, 85 years, fears are entertained for his recovery.

While Mr. and Mrs. J. Clay Cooper, of Mt. Sterling, were returning from Macpelah cemetery, their horse became frightened at the steam road roller and ran away, throwing both out on the rocks and severely injuring them.

Charles Eyeleth, general manager of the Kentucky Northern railroad, was shot by Edward Riley, who was seeking employment, at Beattyville. Eyeleth, after being shot twice, shot Riley twice. The men are reported just alive.

One hundred and twenty-five horses were shipped last week from James B. Haggins' Elmdorf farm, near Lexington, for sale in the Argentine Republic. This is said to be the largest shipment made to South America from the United States.

The model for the equestrian statue of Gen. John H. Morgan, to be erected at Lexington by the Daughters of the Confederacy, was formally accepted by the committee and a bronze statue will now be made from the plaster cast of the rough model.

The Commencement exercises of the University of Kentucky, at Lexington, were held in a large tent, erected on the campus, owing to the large crowd. In the absence of Governor Wilson, who was unable to attend, President Patterson presented the diplomas.

John Maxey, a bad negro of Frankfort, was taken from jail and hung to a girder on South Frankfort bridge, after once being rescued from a mob. Without provocation Maxey shot Bert C. Bowers, manager of the Howe show which was exhibiting there. It is claimed that none of the showmen took part in the lynching and Governor Wilson has offered a reward for the participants.

We know of a no more interesting bridal tour for a city couple than to the mountains of Eastern Kentucky, and this is what Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Haines, of Buffalo, N. Y., who were married Tuesday in that city, evidently think. They arrived here at noon Thursday, and after spending a few days as the guests of the family of Albert Hoffman, they will leave for their unique bridal tour. On their trip Mr. and Mrs. Haines will see some of the prettiest scenery their eyes ever beheld, and meet the most hospitable people upon whom God's sun ever shone.—Sentinel-Democrat.

The grand jury of Madison county for the May term evidently sees the hole in the doughnut, for in their report they touch upon the local option question as follows: "While we believe local option to a great extent is responsible for the suppression of much lawlessness here, we do not believe that prohibition prohibits. We find that something like 100 cases of whisky is shipped into this city and county during the run of a month, and we do not believe it just and fair that this community should be subjected to the results of this drink, while our neighboring states of Ohio, Indiana and Tennessee and others reap the revenue thereof."

Berry Simpson, Stearns miner, indicted by the Federal Courts on a charge of murder in connection with the killing of Deputy United States Marshal Mullins at Stearns, last Christmas Day, last week had the pleasure of seeing his two sons, Harvey and Jess, also under indictment for the killing, released from the Newport jail on bond. The two boys were taken before Federal Judge Cochran in Covington, where they gave bail and were released. The father, after evading Government officers in the mountains of Tennessee for many months, learned of the arrest of his sons and came to Covington, where he surrendered to Marshal Sharp. He would have probably been at large yet had it not been that paternal love for his two sons prompted him to come to them in order to aid them in their attempt to secure their liberty. He says that he is now willing to remain in jail until he is tried.

More Trouble in Breathitt.

Dispatches from Jackson, dated June 4, give the following account of "shooting up" that town:

A. S. Johnson, notorious on account of his having so intimidated the officials of the Breathitt Circuit Court two years ago as to cause the sending of state troops to protect the court, is again on the warpath. Having quarreled with Circuit Judge J. P. Adams on account of a suit being decided against him, he sought Judge Adams at his hotel at night and a difficulty between the two men was only avoided by the interference of friends.

Later, being under the influence of liquor, it is reported, Johnson approached a well-known local attorney who is prominently mentioned as a candidate for Circuit Judge, and told him that if he made the race he would be killed.

Then in company with Jake Noble he started in to shoot up the town. After nearly a hundred shots had been fired in and around Johnson's pool-room, on Broadway, the marshals arrested Jake Noble after overpowering him and knocking him in the head with a pistol.

While the officers were struggling with Noble, some of Johnson's friends took him home with the idea of trying to avoid the publicity of his being taken thru the streets to jail. The officers, however, later arrested Johnson, and he was put in jail, his relatives having refused to furnish bond.

While Jake Noble was being taken up Main street toward the jail by the marshal and his posse they were interfered with by John Davidson, leader of the Deaton faction in their recent war with the Callahans. Davidson came running towards the officers with drawn revolver and demanded Noble's release.

Sam Young, a member of the marshal's posse, covered him with his pistol and held him at bay while the crowd disarmed him. During the excitement a hundred or more pistols flashed in the hands of the crowd on Main street, nearly half of the male population being present. Johnson is a United States Revenue Clerk. Several of the better class of Republicans express themselves as being disgusted with Johnson's conduct.

In Police court the day following Noble was fined $50 and 30 days in jail, and Johnson's case was continued as he was not able to appear in court.

Mrs. Q. C. Daniel left Monday to attend the bedside of her little grand-daughter, Gladys Byrd, at Cannel City, who is reported very sick.

Henry Cecil, wife and sister, Miss Stella, left Saturday for a visit to Asbury Swango, at Means, where Henry will leave his wife for a time.

Joseph Estep, lately a student of the H. G. A., has accepted a clerkship in the J. T. Day store at Torment, but is in the store here temporarily.

For Sale—Two of the Pieratt cottages for less than the lumber and lot can be bought. One acre in each lot; five rooms in each house. Apply at this office.

Mr. and Mrs. James Beatty last Friday moved to the Trimble property. They removed from Lacy creek, where Mr. Beatty had been working in a lumber yard for some months.

Miss Alice Hines, teacher of mathematics at the academy, left Monday for Rochester, N. Y., where she goes to spend the summer in recreation. Miss Hines will return for the fall term.

An infant child of Jack Sally, of Toliver, died Monday morning. This is the third death occurring in the family in two months. The last death was their only child, being only a few months old.

$25,000 Timber Deal.

C. H. Loveland, of Winchester, Monday of last week bought of W. L. Hurst, Sr., of Campton, his virgin forest of timber lying on the head of Stillwater, in this county, for $25,000, $10,000 of which was cash in hand. Mr. Loveland is to be congratulated upon the acquisition of this boundary of timber, which embraces some four or five million feet, and is practically the only virgin forest in this section. Expert timber men say that it is the best to be found in this part of Eastern Kentucky. And Mr. Loveland is to be congratulated also upon the fact that John C. M. Day, of Winchester, and R. J. McLin, of our town, will finance the purchase for him, as both of them are well versed in timber affairs, and will make him a fortune from his forest by reason of their knowledge. He probably could not have picked upon any two individuals in the whole country who could have managed his deal to better advantage. We are glad Messrs. Day and McLin were so fortunate as to get to finance the affair and hope they will also make a nice thing of it.

Alexander Duff Dead.

S. Alexander Duff died at his home at Spencer, in Montgomery county, Wednesday night of last week. He was a prominent and wealthy farmer, 78 years old, and is survived by his wife and three children. Mr. Duff had only been ill two days of acute indigestion. Alex Duff, as he was familiarly called by his friends, was a native of this county, where he farmed for a number of years, and removed to Montgomery county some 30 years ago. Willie Pieratt, who lived in our town some years ago, and now a merchant at Bethel, married one of his daughters. He was very popular here and leaves a host of old-time friends.

Rittenhouse Ranch Improved.

Col. Jack Rittenhouse has fitted up Rittenhouse Ranch and Swango Spring in up-to-date style. He has several nicely finished bath rooms and many other modern conveniences for the accommodation of guests, and seemingly is catering to the comfort of all who attend the spring this year. He has a large ice house filled with clean ice, a cistern of clear water for bathing purposes and plenty of comfortable rooms. To describe the place from top to bottom since the improvements he has made and is making would take up more space than we can this week spare. Suffice to say guests will be pleased with the place.

Grub Worms and Sassafras.

There is a legendary story that sassafras sprouts spring from defunct grub worms, but the editor of this paper could never be made to believe it until Saturday last, when Lee Caskey brought to this office a partially petrified grub worm from which was a growth of some kind of vegetable matter. Indeed it was a sprout of some kind, but whether a sassafras or something else we are not prepared to say. The writer, however, has heard many men assert the fact that if you pull up or dig out a young sassafras sprout you will invariably find a grub worm at the root of it.

Notice.

All the stockholders of the old Hazel Green Fair Association are requested to meet on the old fair grounds on Saturday, June 19, 1909, to reorganize the Hazel Green fair. It is proposed to hold the fair Tuesday, Sept. 14, and four following days. Everybody who wishes to attend or has any desire to take stock in same is cordially invited.

J. TAYLOR DAY.

In an entertainment given at Hiram College, Ohio, recently the Hazel Green students were the leading characters in the play, which is said to have been the best ever given at the college. The following are the Hazel Green people who participated, all graduates of the academy: Mrs. Maud Kash, Misses Sue Long and Della Legg, Claib and John Johnson and Willie Hurt.

Mrs. Bishop, nee Boulah Thomas, of Morehead, who has been visiting Mrs. Q. C. Daniel, left Monday for home via Cannel City and Morehead.

Harlan and Floyd, sons of S. F. Reynolds, our saddle man, left Saturday morning for their home in Owsley county, and will not return. Mr. Reynolds and wife are expecting to go in the near future.

Jim Faulkner, Berry, Harlan and Dorsey Taulbee, Luther Brown and Stanley Clark had a fox chase Saturday night and had fine sport. They did not get the brush but ran two young ones and an old one in a hole.

If you want a fine razor—as good as you can buy for $2—call this at office and get one for $1. We also have a few watches, good time keepers, that can be had for $1 each. Don't wait until supply is gone.

J. T. Day requests us to state that he has surveyed and bedded a track for the fair ground, has the lumber on the ground to erect all buildings, and is determined to have a fair, beginning Sept. 14 and four following days.

Byrd Faulkner one day last week sold Col. Jack Rittenhouse a groundhog, who put it in the cage with his pet fox one evening. Next morning he went out to feed his pets and found that the fox had made a feast on the groundhog.

The county school board met at Campton Monday with the superintendent of schools for the purpose of locating a site for a high school building at Campton and contracting for its erection. They found a site and contracted for same, provided the Wesleyan Academy owners did not accept their bid of $3,200 for that structure, which has been abandoned. The edifice cost $8,000 and is an elegant brick.

It is usually the case of the editor dictating to his correspondents the policy they should pursue and the kind of news items desired, yet some of our correspondents would reverse the plan and dictate to the editor. Correspondents will please remember that visits between neighbors and boys calling on their best girls are not matters of news and we take the liberty of eliminating such as much as possible from all correspondence.

W. P. Haines and wife, of Buffalo, N. Y., were guests of the Day House from Sunday afternoon to Tuesday morning, and left for Salyersville. Mr. Haines is said to be a millionaire, and he told the writer he was touring this country for the purpose of seeing the scenery. He had a negro cook with him who also drives a team hauling his trunks and a tent in which they camp when they cannot secure suitable house accommodations. He and his wife travel in a buggy.

Theodore Cundiff, a renter, or rather a lessee of Kelly Nickell, on Grassy, Wednesday night of last week had the misfortune to lose his barn containing 300 bushels of corn, a lot of hay, fodder, all his harness and farm gear, saddles, and many other articles of value to a farmer. Mr. Cundiff is said by those who know him to be one of the most energetic farmers in the country, and this loss is a serious one to him. He took a lease from Mr. Nickell, cleared up the ground for last year's crop, and has also a fine crop in this year.

Billy Packed, of Grassy, one day last week killed a grassy eagle which measured six feet from tip to tip of wings. As we noted last week Bill Sweeney killed an eagle of the same species measuring seven feet from tip to tip of wings, and the distance between the two points being only five miles, the presumption is that they were probably mates, the Sweeney eagle being the male and the Packed bird the female. Either were large enough to carry away a baby, a lamb or goat weighing 40 pounds, and the thanks of the people generally are due to Messrs. Sweeney and Packed for ridding the country of them.

Ed Callahan Fatally Shot.

While opening his store at Crockettville Monday morning Ed Callahan was shot from ambush, the assassin standing in the mouth of a coal bank 85 yards distant. The bullet, which was of steel, was fired from a needle gun and penetrated his left side just above the waistband of his pants, passed through his body and three walls of his store. The wound is thought to be fatal, although he was alive at last accounts Tuesday. His son, Wilson Callahan, was waylaid the same morning while going from the barn, where he had gone to feed, to the house. The bullet knocked his hat off and combed through his hair. So terrorized were he and his stepmother that it was an hour or more ere they would venture to the store to see how badly his father was hurt. A messenger was hurried to Elkatawa and sent a dispatch to Lexington for Capt. Milliken and his bounds, which arrived on the 11:30 train and at 1 p. m. were put on the trail, which they followed, it is said, in the direction of the home of Smith, who married Callahan's divorced wife.

Cool-headed, conservative citizens of Breathitt declare this will lead up to worse trouble than any ever seen in the county.

Uncle Sam Wilson, painter-post, is painting at the Rittenhouse Ranch this week.

Dr. Taylor Center reports the birth of a boy to the wife of Azel Jones, Saturday, June 5.

At the last meeting of the Hazel Green Lodge of Odd Fellows the request was made that all members be present at next meeting, which is Friday night, June 18th.

Married, at the residence of Harlan Trimble, on Lacy creek, Saturday night, June 5, Dr. A. C. Nickell and Mrs. Rosa Coldiron, Rev. Boone Center tying the nuptial knot.

Misses Lou Ward and Emma Cox entertained their relatives to a sumptuous dinner Sunday in honor of Mrs. Alice Creech, of Oklahoma. Quite a crowd partook of the sumptuous feast, and all report an enjoyable time.

What seems to argue most in Kentucky's educational progress, is the public sentiment that is everywhere in the commonwealth demanding, better conditions. The college and higher institutions of learning throughout Kentucky have become zealous advocates of improved rural school conditions. Men and women in every walk and condition of life are clamoring for better schools in rural Kentucky. Business men who heretofore have failed to connect material progress with educational progress, have now opened their eyes to the fact that these go hand in hand, and so are arguing with much enthusiasm broader and more liberal education for all the children in Kentucky. This aroused public sentiment bodes well for our educational progress; for the schools of any commonwealth can be made as good as the people want them. Public interest is the life of the public schools.

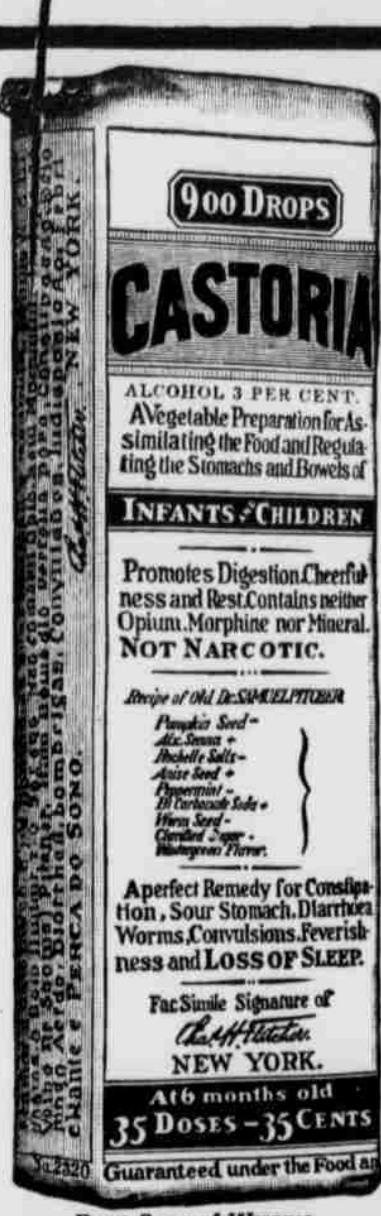

Town Ordinances.

It is ordained by the Board of Trustees of the Town of Hazel Green, Ky.: That if any stock of any kind be found running on the streets or alleys of the Town of Hazel Green without being in custody of some person who is driving same, the owner thereof shall be fined One Dollar for each offense, and every day shall be deemed a separate offense, which fine and cost, upon conviction, shall be collected as other fines are collected.

JOHN WARD, Chairman. Adopted June 8, 1909.

It is further ordained that Sections 18 and 29 are hereby repealed.

POLLY of the CIRCUS

By MARGARET MAYO

Copyright, 1908, by Dodd, Mead and Company

"What are we goin' to do, Jim?" asked Toby helplessly.

"You needn't worry. We'll take good care of her here," said Douglas, seeing desperation written on their faces.

"Here?" They looked at him incredulously. And this was a parson!

"Where are her parents?" the doctor asked, looking at Jim and Toby.

"She ain't got no parents 'cept Toby an' me," replied Jim. "We've took care of her ever since she was a baby."

"Oh, I see," said the doctor. "Well, one of you'd better stay here until she can be moved."

"That's the trouble. We can't," said Toby, hanging his head. "You see, sir, circus folks is like soldiers. No matter what happens, the show has to go on, an' we got to be in our places."

"Well, well, she'll be safe enough here," said the doctor. "It is a fortunate thing that Mr. Douglas can manage this. Our town hospital burned down a few months ago, and we've been rather puzzled as to what to do with such cases." He took his leave, with a cheery "Good night!" and a promise to look in upon the little patient later. Jim shuffled awkwardly toward the pastor.

"It's mighty good of you to do this," he mumbled, "but she ain't goin' to be no charity patient. Me an' Toby is goin' to look after her keep."

"Her wants will be very few," Douglas answered kindly. "You needn't trouble much about that."

"I mean it," said Jim savagely. He met Douglas' glance of surprise with a determined look, for he feared that his chance of being useful to Polly might be slipping out of his life.

"You mustn't mind Jim's," the clown pleaded at the pastor's elbow. "You see, pain gets some folks different from others, an' it always kinder makes him savage."

"Oh, that's all right," Douglas answered quickly. His own life had been so lonely that he could understand the selfish yearning in the big man's heart. "You must do what you think best about these things. Mandy and I will look after the rest."

Jim hung his head, feeling somehow that the pastor had seen straight into his heart and discovered his petty weakness. He was about to turn toward the door when it was thrown open by Barker.

"Where is she?" shouted the manager, looking from one to the other.

"She can't come," said Jim in a low, steady voice, for he knew the storm of opposition with which Barker would meet the announcement.

"Can't come?" shrieked Barker. "Of course she'll come. I can't get along without her. She's got to come." He looked at Jim, who remained silent and firm. "Why ain't she comin'?" he asked, feeling himself already defeated.

"She's hurt bad," was Jim's laconic reply.

"The devil she is!" said Barker, looking at Douglas for confirmation. "Is that right?"

"She won't be able to travel for some time," said Douglas.

"Mr. Barker is our manager," Toby explained as he edged his way to the pastor's side.

"Some time!" Barker looked at Douglas as though he were to blame for their misfortune. "Well, you just bet she will," he declared menacingly.

"See here, Barker, don't you talk to him like that," said Jim, facing the manager. "He's darned square, even if he is a parson." Barker turned away. He was not a bad hearted man, but he was irritated and upset at losing the star feature of his bill.

"Ain't this my dodgasted luck?" he muttered to himself as his eye again traveled to the boss canvasman. "You get out of here, Jim," he shouted, "an' start them wagons. The show's got to go on, Pull or no Pull!"

He turned with his hand on the doorknob and jerked out a grudging thanks to the pastor. "It's all first-class of you to take her in," he said, "but it's tough to lose her. Good night!" He banged the door and clattered down the steps.

Jim waited. He was trying to find words in which to tell his gratitude. None came, and he turned to go, with a short "Goodby."

"Good night, Jim," said the pastor. He crossed the room and took the big fellow's hand.

"Much obliged," Jim answered gruffly. It was his only polite phrase, and he had taught Polly to say it. Douglas waited until Jim had passed down the steps, then turned to Toby, who still lingered near the table.

"You'll tell her how it was me an' Jim had to leave her without sayin' goodbye, won't you, sir?" Toby pleaded.

"Yes, indeed," Douglas promised.

"I'll jes' put this little bit of money into her satchel," he picked up the little brown bag that was to have been Polly's birthday gift. "Me an' Jim will be sendin' her more soon."

"You're going to miss her, I'm afraid," Douglas said, feeling an irresistible desire to gain the old man's confidence.

"Lord bless you, yes, sir!" Toby answered, turning upon him eagerly.

"Me an' Jim has been father an' mother

"No matter what happens, the show has to go on."

er an' jes' about everything to the little one. She wasn't much bigger'n a handful of peanuts when we begun a-worryin' about her."

"Well, Mandy will do the worrying now," Douglas laughed. "She's been dying for a chance to mother somebody all along. Why, she even tried it on me."

"I noticed as how some of those church people seemed to look kinder queer at me," said Toby, "an' I been a-wonderin' if mebbe they might feel the same about her."

"Oh, they're all right!" Douglas assured him. "They'll be her friends in no time."

"She's fit for 'em, sir," Toby pleaded. "She's good, clean into the middle of her heart."

"I'm sure of it," Douglas answered. "I've heard how some church folks feels towards us circus people, sir, an' I jes' wanted you to know that there ain't finer families or better mothers or fathers or grandfathers or grandmothers anywhere than among us. Why, that girl's mother rode the horses afore her, an' her mother afore that, an' her grandmother an' grandfather afore that, an' there ain't nobody what's cared more for their good name an' their children's good name 'an her people has. You see, sir, circus folks is all like that. They's jes' like one big family. They tends to their business an' takes good care of themselves. They has to or they couldn't do their work. It's 'cause I'm leavin' her with you that I'm sayin' all this," the old man apologized.

"I'm glad you told me, Toby," Douglas answered kindly. "I've never known much about circus folks."

"I guess I'd better be goin'," Toby faltered as his eyes roved hungrily toward the stairway.

"I'll send you our route, an' mebbe you'll be lettin' us know how she is."

"Indeed, I will," Douglas assured him heartily.

"You might tell her we'll write ever day or so," he added.

"I'll tell her," Douglas promised earnestly.

"Good night!" The old man hesitated, unwilling to go, but unable to find further pretext for staying.

"Good night, Toby," Douglas extended his hand toward the bent figure that was about to shuffle past him. The withered hand of the white faced clown rested in the strong grasp of the pastor, and his pale little eyes sought the face of the stalwart man before him. A numb desolation was growing in his heart. The object for which he had gone on day by day was being left behind, and he must stumble forth into the night alone.

"It's hard to leave her," he mumbled, "but the show has got to go on."

The door shut out the bent, old figure. Douglas stood for some time where Toby had left him, still thinking of his prophetic words. His reverie was broken by the sounds of the departing wagons, the low muttered curses of the drivers, the shrieking and roaring of the animals, as the circus train moved up the distant hill.

"The show has got to go on," he repeated as he crossed to his study table and seated himself for work in the dim light of the old fashioned lamp. He put out one hand to draw the sheets of his interrupted sermon toward him, but instead it fell upon a small sailor hat. He twisted the hat absently in his fingers, not yet realizing the new order of things that was coming into his life. Mandy tiptoed softly down the stairs. She placed one pudgy forefinger on her lips and rolled her large eyes skyward. "Dat sure am an angel chile straight from heaven," she whispered. "She doze got a face jes' like a little flower."

"Straight from heaven," Douglas repeated as she crossed softly to the table and picked up the satchel and coat.

"You can leave the lamp, Mandy. I must finish tomorrow's sermon."

She turned at the threshold and shook her head rather sadly as she saw the imprint of the day's cares on the young pastor's face.

"Yo' mus' be powful tired," she said.

"No, no; not at all. Good night, Mandy."

She closed the door behind her, and Douglas was alone. He gazed absently at the pages of his unfinished sermon as he tapped his idle pen on the desk. "The show has got to go on," he repeated, and far up the hillside with the slow moving wagons Jim and Toby looked with unseeing eyes into the dim, starlit distance and echoed the thought, "The show has got to go on."

RESOLUTIONS Against Prohibition

Louisville Business Men Agree That State-Wide Law Would Do Great Harm.

They Say That the Destroying of Property Would Make Taxes Much Higher on Land and Improvements Without Stopping the Use of Liquor.

Three hundred and fifty of the leading men of Louisville—bankers, wholesale merchants, livestock dealers, architects, lawyers, coal men, lumber men and representatives of railroads—met at the Board of Trade and passed resolutions opposing state-wide prohibition in Kentucky. They declared that such a measure would cause an increase of nearly one-third the present rate on all property, and figured that the burden would fall on farming land, town lots and improvements, real estate being a fixture and not movable to other states in case of harder times.

The meeting was voluntarily held by the business men, interest having been aroused by Mr. W. H. Newman, a prominent business man of Louisville, who is widely known over the state. Mr. E. H. Bowen, ex-president of the Board of Trade, was chosen as chairman of the meeting. He invited discussion of the prohibition question, and Mr. Clarence Dallam, attorney at law; John M. Atherton, Harry Weisinger, Mr. W. H. Newman and others spoke against prohibition. The Rev. M. J. Fanning, a traveling prohibition orator now working in Kentucky, asked for a hearing and received respectful attention.

Mr. Newman's Explanation.

Mr. W. H. Newman, who called the meeting together, said in part:

"The resolutions which I here offer were drawn after getting the views, by conference and correspondence, of nearly every man present and some who are not, all points as shown and approved by them, and signified their intention of being present, and in case they were not authorized the use of their names."

"I might add that a great many expressed the desire that the laws pertaining to the retail liquor traffic should be looked after. Many suggestions were proposed, such as high license and requiring the saloons to be closed at a reasonable hour at night, which is the case in many cities; the cancellation of the license of all who fail to comply strictly with the law and keep an orderly house, etc. Such authority vested in an excise board appointed by the governor, being non-partisan, issue the licenses and have full power on sufficient evidence to revoke, has given good results and great satisfaction in Massachusetts. However, such subjects were not incorporated in our resolutions, as to accomplish such result would require organization, and as we are here only as individuals, we thought it advisable to express our views briefly in the following resolutions:

Text of Resolutions.

First—We note with concern a movement destructive of the state's largest industry and setting an example involving danger to all property rights.

Second—We deplore and unreservedly condemn saloon domination in politics and favor its extirpation at any cost, and we appreciate the provocation afforded by such abuses to conscientious persons to advocate prohibition, but we deny the wisdom or honesty of a proceeding to destroy property of so enormous value as a sheer experiment tried repeatedly with more or less failure and often after trial abandoned as unsuccessful.

Third—We unqualifiedly condemn as vicious and dishonest in principle and destructive of that liberty which constitutes, and must always constitute, the basis of free government, the boycott which has too often disgraced the methods of both prohibitionists and liquor men.

Fourth—The liquor business employs a vast amount of capital and labor and brings a large amount of foreign capital to this state, and it is an industry upon which the state depends for a large proportion of its revenue, and which pays very largely to the support of our various counties and municipalities.

Fifth—The destruction of this industry, legalized by the state from its organization, without compensation would be plain dishonesty and would reflect upon its good name handed down to us by our forefathers and which we should pass on to our posterity untarnished. If compensation should be provided it would require the issuing of approximately $70,000,000 of bonds by the state. To meet the interest on such an increased indebtedness would require an increase of at least 100 per cent in the taxes levied upon all other forms of property, besides an increase of 33 1/3 per cent in the tax rate on all remaining property to meet the loss of tax on this business.

Would Divert Revenue.

Sixth—It would divert from the state of Kentucky to other states, such as Illinois and Pennsylvania, where this industry is specially encouraged, the largest business and the greatest source of revenue of our state and would yet permit the individual by subterfuge to obtain outside of Kentucky what he could not obtain legally in Kentucky, thus violating one of the fundamental principles of political economy.

Seventh—History, past and current, shows that prohibition laws are evaded and defied; the violation of one law unpunished tends to encourage disregard for laws in general. We favor laws which give all of our communities full power to deal with this question as a local issue, and we believe that agitation in favor of state-wide prohibition in regard to alcoholic beverages would engender strife and bitterness among our people and would almost certainly be followed in Kentucky by a demand for similar action in regard to the manufacture and sale of tobacco, the next largest interest in Kentucky, as already agitated, therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, as business men of Louisville and citizens of Kentucky, while opposing intemperance, believe that a movement in favor of state-wide prohibition would be detrimental in every way to the best interests of our state, and we are, therefore, unalterably opposed to such a movement or to further agitation of this question except insofar as may be necessary to enforce the laws already enacted for the strict regulation of the liquor traffic.

Facts and Figures.

In speaking on the resolutions just before they were adopted, Mr. Clarence Dallam said:

"Figures carefully compiled from the state and federal statistics, from the tax books and from other reliable sources, show that the value of the distillery and brewing plants of the state is $67,000,000; that the amount of whiskey stored in Kentucky June 30, 1908, was $24,821,451 (United States commissioner's report for the year ending June 30, 1908.)

"The direct revenue from spirits and spirit dealers in Kentucky, as shown by the last report of the Equalization Board and by the Auditor of State, exclusive of plants and other property, amounts to $626,573.09. This is equivalent to the tax at 50 cents on the hundred dollars on $125,372,738. To this sum add stock out of bond and distillery and brewing property, $67,793,473, and we have a total of $193,166,211.

"There is no separation of the various characters of real estate and improvement in the report of the Equalization Board, hence only an estimate of the value of the distillery and brewing property can be given, but the estimate seems reasonable when it is considered that the product of all other manufacturing establishments of the state for the same properties amounts to $2,768,167. However, this can be explained when it is known that whiskey remains in bonded warehouses for years for maturity, and the same product often pays tax for seven years to the state, whereas all other manufactured products are sold as soon after manufactured as possible.

"Another fact to be considered is that the tax on every dollar of the assessed value of whiskey in bond is paid to the Auditor of State direct and at very little expense for collection, and a very large portion of this is paid by foreign investors. Therefore, the whiskey manufacturer, or rather the foregoing facts, show the whiskey manufacturer is infinitely more valuable as a taxpayer than all others.

"The total assessed value of all property in Kentucky is $747,918,326. Deduct from this the value of distillery and brewing property and the assessed value of other products out of bond, amounting to $67,793,473, and there remains $680,124,853 of assessable property, which would have to make up the loss of $193,166,211 sustained by the loss of the special licenses and tax derived from whiskey in bond. This would require an increase in the tax rate of 28 per cent on every dollar of assessed property remaining.

"The final sufferers will be the owners of land and improvements, which, unlike other property, cannot be moved to other states promising better returns for improvement, as real estate is the final sufferer from all taxation.

"I might also add that the state of Kentucky paid internal revenue tax on spirits in the year 1908 amounting to $24,086,608.11, which would be lost to the government, and this revenue would have to be replaced by some additional taxation, a portion of which would have to be borne by this state as well as others."

Telegrams From Business Men of Other Cities.

The following telegrams addressed to the Chairman of the meeting were read:

From the City Transfer Company, Owensboro—"We are strongly against state-wide prohibition. It is not practical, and could not be enforced, and it would raise taxes."

From J. W. Dougherty, Owensboro Grocer—"State-wide prohibition is a farce. Have had experience; it only increases taxes."

From H. F. Stovall, John B. Grider, George F. Massey, W. H. Rahold, Moseley Cuthbertson, C. R. Mahon, G. N. Williamson, L. G. Duncan, F. Maier and others business men of Bowling Green—"As business men we wish to protest against any state-wide prohibition measure as detrimental to business interests of the entire state."

From R. L. Weldon, an Owensboro Druggist—"I strongly protest against state-wide prohibition. It does not prohibit, but causes increased taxation."

From the George H. Cox Company, Owensboro—"We enter protest against state-wide prohibition movement. It increases taxation already burdensome."
